Friedrich Paulsen, an autobiography: translated and edited by Theodor Lorenz, with a foreword by Nicholas Murray Butler. New York, Columbia university press, 1908.

"The ... first twelve chapters, dealing with the years 1846-1877, form the contents of the Autobiography, published in Germany in 1900; the year after Paulsen's death. The remaining paragraphs of the twelfth chapter, at that time omitted out of regard for persons still living, have now been restored. The narrative relating to the second half of Paulsen's life (1877-1908) were never published in German. They have here been translated from the original manuscript."—Introductory to the second part.

Mammalia and ornithology. 1848. (Card 2)

This volume was suppressed and replaced by: Mammalogy and ornithology. By John Cramer. With a folio atlas. Philadelphia, Printed by C. Sherman, 1858.

In the preface to this later volume, the author says: In 1851 I was engaged to superintend the preparation of plates for the Atlas of Mammalogy and ornithology, and subsequently to prepare the present volume. From the notes and observations of Mr. Titian R. Peale, much has been derived. Many of the drawings for the plates of the Atlas, were made by Mr. Peale.

The volume by T. R. Peale is very rare. The Library of Congress has no copy of it. This entry has been prepared from a copy in the library of the U. S. National Museum.

... The prophecy of John of Bridlington ... by Sister Helen Margaret Peck ... Chicago, Ill., 1931.

1 p. l. 72, 105, 120 p. map. 24^m.

Part of thesis (Ph. D.)—University of Chicago, 1930.

MINIATURIZED.
A discussion of the "Prophecy of John of Bridlington" ... which ... contains a series of short Latin vaticinal poems, each of which is followed by a Latin prose commentary. The authorship of the prophecy proper has been generally attributed to John of Bridlington and that of the commentary to John Ergheme. Authorities now believe however that John Ergheme wrote both prophecy and commentary.
